

FIRST 2011 NEWSLETTER

Dear guests and friends of the Inselhaus Bed & Breakfast,

We wish you all a very Happy 2011!

Thank you to everyone who has stayed with us in the past and we look forward to seeing you again in the future. We have truly enjoyed all of our guests! If you also enjoyed your stay with us, please leave a comment on our Facebook page 'Inselhaus Bed & Breakfast' or post a review on Bedandbreakfast.com. We love to hear what you have to say about your experience.

Sometimes, we have comments from our guests about how their time at the Inselhaus was nothing as they thought it would be at all. Here are some myths we have encountered:

1. Bed and Breakfast decor is limited to lace doilies, paisley wallpaper, antiques and patchwork quilts.

The Inselhaus was built in 1901 so it does have Victorian charm. However, we are not over-run with outdated artifacts! Each room has a unique style of its own and while our floors may creak with age, our amenities are definitely 21st century.

2. You have to share a bathroom with other guests.

Most definitely not! Each room at Inselhaus has its own bathroom.

3. You have to eat breakfast with total strangers and eat whatever the innkeeper prepares that morning.

We serve breakfast based on your schedule so that dictates whom you will be dining with. There are separate tables if you would like to dine alone (and do not forget breakfast in bed). Many times, our guests meet each other the night before and enjoy their company. Dietary needs are always taken care of and whether you are gluten-free, diabetic, lactose intolerant, vegetarian (like one of our workers, Jillian), etc. We have you covered!

4. You have to abide by a curfew set by the innkeeper.

Each guestroom receives a key to the front door and their room. We have no curfews at Inselhaus; we just ask that you respect other guests as you enter later in the evening. If you are lucky and not too late, Dorothee may be waiting for you with a glass of wine!

5. Bed and breakfasts are only for couples and prohibit children and pets.

The Inselhaus sees several families visit us a year, be it for reunions or WIU graduations. With six rooms, we can accommodate larger families and their children of any age. Several of our regular visitors bring their pets, too, and we find them to be well behaved!

After reading these myths and responses, we hope that you never stay in a hotel again!

Please know our doors are always open to guests and friends. A reservation at the Inselhaus B&B should be your new year's resolution. Our resolution is to have the very best and most hospitable bed and breakfast in the area!

Remember, repeat guests receive 10 percent off; visit our website, www.inselhausbb.com for more details.

Cheers to a happy New Year!
